

A Few Photos from the Conference

Colloquium on Violence & Religion

COV&R

“An International Symposium on Violence Reduction in Theory and Practice” Atlanta, GA 1999

Atlanta Airport, June 2

A scene from the atrium, adjacent to the longest of the long escalators where the Emory people took us to our shuttle

skipping ahead to Saturday, June 5

Cesareo Bandera, during his valediction as President of the Colloquium on Violence and Religion

NEXT PAGE

Business Meeting, Saturday, June 5

Rusty Palmer, just prior to exclaiming, "I want one, too!" upon seeing Bob Hamerton- Kelly receive a handout on the Y2K Boston Conference

Business Meeting, Saturday, June 5

Sandoor Goodhart, newly elected Ex. Secretary; to his left, Eric Gans, newly elected member of Board of Advisers, and Diane Culbertson, newly elected President; the venerable René

NEXT PAGE

Business Meeting, Saturday, June 5

Business Meeting, Saturday, June 5

Wolfgang Palaver, en route to New York for his second conference of the weekend...

Business Meeting, Saturday, June 5

Ed Hostetter

Saturday, June 5
Conference participant in
Woodruff Residential Center

Saturday, June 5
Woodruff Residential Center,
where we slept

Saturday, June 5
University Center, where we ate

Saturday, June 5
Cox Hall, where most of the formal talks took place

Saturday, June 5

Local Shops: Jagers, where several registrants shared ideas over beer and wine; Starbucks, to the right

Saturday, June 5

Starbucks, with Thee Smith, conference coordinator

Saturday, June 5

Starbucks, with Chris Carter, author of recent book on Kenneth Burke & René Girard

Saturday, June 5

University Center, the dining place

Saturday, June 5

Downtown Atlanta in the foggy distance

FIRST PAGE